HARASSMENT AT DAWN

WITH a series of dawn raids that may not be ended yet, the income tax authorities have begun probes into a number of alleged tax offences. But the raids have not only been staged, they have also been stage managed. The inspectors have been accompanied by invited news-men and photographers to make certain that the details of these seizures are given the benefit of full publicity.

The tax authorities do not hide their intent. They have gone on record as saying that such raids, with invited flashbulbs popping, are a new departure— the aim is to show the public that the tax men do not only pressure the little man but only pressure the little man but go after and get the affluent

While there can be no question about the need to investigate alleged tax offences, and to do so without regard to the social status, power, or position of those under suspicion, there is a serious question whether the authorities can, with pro-priety, engage in the kind of advertising and defamation of character which the public witnessed last week.

Everyone can agree that justice must not only be done, but also be seen to be done. But justice is done when an investi-gation is concluded, not when it begins, when the judicial power is called upon to weigh the evi-dence to determine guilt or innocence.

In the tax probes, the persons suspected have been publicly maligned by the tax authorities not merely before the Courts have determined their culpability, but even before it is clear whether there will be sufficient grounds for bringing in charges.

Presumably the decision to stage such raids and give them the fullest publicity was influenced by a concern for public morale by a concern for public. morale, by a sensitivity to the feeling, expressed especially af-ter the Netivei Neft case be-came public, that in the upper echelons of society and influence the State ignores financial de-viance. But the State's manhandling of private persons cannot in-spire confidence. It can only serve to further alienate the citizen from the public authorities which are charged to serve,

The income tax authorities, even before last week's raids, were not blessed by a favourable public image. Given the heavy citizen, and business enterprise, the over-complicated tax structure which the investigators must seek to implement, and the resulting effort by almost every-one, big man and little, to exploit every loophole, the tax officials have an unenviable task. The energy devoted to finding loopholes, is matched by the tax authorities' diligence in assuming that tax returns are generally fraudulent. The result is mutual suspicion of an entirely unhealthy order between the citizen and this arm of the State. Last week's proceedings can only serve to aggravate this situation, not reform it.

Under the best of tax systems there will be violators, and there will be investigations. But the system is seriously defective when tax investigators feel the need to show how they can harass us at dawn.

The latest undercover journey by President Nixon's Assistant for National Security Affairs, was continued.

"I would just say this is another example of their bad faith."

The Kissinger journey on Tuesday was followed in two days by the suspension of the Paris talks by the U.S. and Saigon Governments. It appears a top-level assessment of Kissinger's secret soundings prompted that action.

LIBYAN PLOT TO MANILA REBELS

HONGKONG (ANS).

DAKISTAN reached an agreement with Libya, some time late last year, to provide transit facilities for shipments of arms to the Philippines to support the anti-Government insurgency campaign in the Moslem-populated areas in the archipelago, it is now learned from highly-placed diplomatic sources.

The secrecy-shrouded deal was probably one of the last moves made. by the former Pakistam President, General Mohammad Yahya Khan, to back Libya's adventurist policy in this region, But the operation presumably never materialized. The Indo-Pakistan war erupted in early December and led to the ouster of General Yahya Khan from office.

The existence of the "agreement" between Libya and Pakistan for the supply of arms for the Mindanao revolt in the Philippines came to light early this year, through a di-plomatic source of a third country. The vital information was immediately communicated to General Carics Romulo, the Foreign Secretary of the Philippines, through secret

It is now possible to confirm that the information was contained in a "top secret" letter written to the head of a Pakistam diplomatic mission abroad, by Mr. S.M. Khan, the then Foreign Secretary of Pakistan. A photo-copy of the letter, written several weeks before the outbreak of the Indo-Pakistan armed conflict, was placed at the disposal of the Philippine authorities.

Pakistan agreed

If the letter spelled out Pakistan's agreement on the question of providing transit facilities, presumably by air, for the supply of Libyan arms to the Philippines, it also reflected Islamsbad's serious reservations, not so much about the propriety of the move as about the success of the

After disclosing the nature of the deal, Mr. Khan's letter, inter alia, said, "although we are sceptical, we cannot give any negative reply to Libya as it will offend them."

Islamabad's reluctance to give any offence to Col. Gadaffi of Libya was perfectly understandable. About the time when the deal for the sup-ply of arms to the Philippines was discussed — and agreed on — Libya had emerged as the strongest supporter of Pakistan in the latter's conflict with India and the Bangiadesh forces in what was then Bast Pakistan, Arms and materials worth millions of dollars poured into Pakistan from Libya as the Yanya re-

LONDON. - The price of gold climbed to a post-war peak on the free market on Friday and closed the session at $51.125 an ounce. In Washington the U.S. formally devalued the dollar on Friday after Congress had cleared an Appropria-tions Bill which had held up the declaration.

Treasury Secretary John B. Con-nally notified the International Monetary Fund that the U.S. is changing the par value of the dollar from one thirty-fifth to one thirty-eighth of an ounce of gold. The change will become effective at noon tomorrow.

It is the final official step by the U.S. in fulfilling its agreement to devalue the dollar by raising the official price of gold from 35 to 38 dollars an ounce.

That agreement was reached last December at an International Monetary Conference in which the currencies of several major nations were changed.

MAURER, MEIR STATEMENTS

night. Your visit to Rumania, esteemed Madame Prime Minister, follows the lines of the normal evolution of the relations between our two countries and expresses the desire of both sides to get to know each other better and to further promote the development of the relations between our two people. Certainly Rumania and Israel have different social and political systems and our conceptions on a number of international questions do not coincide. But we proceed from the axiomatic truth that the existence of these differences should not prevent peaceful co-existence, promotion of a realistic and constructive policy, and wide cooperation aimed at ensuring peace and general security.

I do hope that this visit, though short, will enable you to acquaint yourself with some of the achieve-ments of the Rumanian people in seeking to build up, in peaceful conditions, a modern society, where it can enjoy the fruits of freedom and progress. The Rumanian people is national understanding and collaboration well aware that it can achieve its and peace, we wish to manifest our consequences and through its active participation in the world circuit of management of the world.

Mr. President, I represent a people — a very old people with a long history, with many tragic chapters. This is the third time that the Jewish people is anjoying sovereignty on the land from which it sprung. Every hill and every valley tell of our having been here before. One may have various explanations to this phenomenon of a people driven out of its land, dispersed among peoples in all corners of the earth, that has remained loyal to the religion, fatherland and language, and hever gave up hope for its return. To our sorrow, it was not given to us to rebuild our land in peace. Since the beginning of the modern return to Isael we laid the foundation for a society based on justice, freedom and dignity of the individual.

When the House Committee re-sumed, I announced that my faction, which objects to the May 1 festivities, responded to the Alignment faction's collegial request, out of consideration for the feelings of others, and I again proposed my compromise with the approval of the N.R.P. faction. The proposal was carried in my version with a majority of 12 votes against 7.

DR. YITZHAK RAPHAEL, M.K. Jerusalem, April 27.

Our Knesset Correspondent,
Asher Wallfish, comments:
In view of the fact that Dr. Raphael holds no official status in the N.R.P. Knesset faction, I checked my report - after Dr. Raphael's letter was received - with the faction chairman, Mrs. Tova Sanhedria, who is also Deputy Speaker. The facts, which do not coincide with the picture presented in Dr. Raphael's letter, are as follows:

One week tefore May Day the NR.P. faction voted unanimously (12 M.K.s present out of a total of 14) against any proposal to close the Knesset on May Day. Dr. Raphael was absent.

 Accordingly, the NRP. representative in the Presidium, Mrs.
 Tova Sanhedrai, was instructed to vote against such proposals, and she did so in the name of the faction.

The day before May Day, Dr. Raphael summoned a faction meeting to consider his compromise proposal, at which it was approved four votes to three - and not as Dr. Raphael represents it. His proposal was not approved by the House Committee, since Attorney-General Meir Shamgar, who had been consulted, advised that it lacked validity. The proposal which was approved by the House Committee was the original proposal passed by a majority of the Presidium over the votes of Gahal and the N.R.P., drafted in the form of a decision and not a request, by Acting Speaker Yitzhak Navon. The facts as detailed above were put on record in the N.R.P. faction caucus this week by chairman Tova Sanhedrai. As The Post reported, most N.R.P. members felt the Knesset should sit as usual on May 1, and were greatly incensed at Dr. Raphael's action, which they felt went counter to the letter and spirit of the original and official faction decision. Dr. Raphael was not present at this week's caucus when Mrs. Sanhedral made her statement.

NAIROBI (FWF), -IN Kenya, unlike meny of its sister states, it is the politicians, and not the military, who have effective control of the nation's destiny, Unlike Tanzania, its southern partner in the East African Com-munity (E.A.C.), Kenya has not sought to experiment in an African edition of grass-roots socialism. Kenya is unashamediy capitalist.

Kenyans' desire to own land and property is common to all tribes. A European who decides to sell out can find himself in the centre of an inter-tribal dispute which leads to violence. Mochtar Lubis, publisher and editor-in-chief of the "Indonesia Raya," said that Asian socialists had failed to establish themselves as a convincing alternative to either the more militant and revolutionary Markists or to the new power elite running most of the non-Com-munist countries in Asia.

"In Indonesia the Socialist Party was banned by the Sukarno regime, and the remnants of the party are divided among themselves," he said. He doubted whether the party could be revived even under the more tolerant Suharto regime.

Only in Singapore

"In Burms the Social Democrats have lost to the military. In India the Social Democrats have failed to make any appreciable dent in the power of the Congress Party. In Japan the Social Democrats have failed to gain effective power. Perhaps only in Singapore have the Social Democrats succeeded... But perhaps also at the cost of democracy and socialism."

Hirosh! Kitamura, a professor of Economics at Osaka University and an authority of development eco-nomics, identified various factors determining the Asian response to socialistic ideas: "The relative level of living of the people; the degree of sophistication achieved by the new national leadership; the manner of the transition to indepen-

Crust of the earth to be mapped out

REHOVOT. - The crust of the earth in Israel and Sinal, down to a depth of 100 kilometres, is being mapped for the first time in a fiveyear seismological research project recently initiated by Prof. Ari Ben-Menahem and his colleagues at the Weizmann Institute's Geophysical Laboratory. The Laboratory forms part of the Applied Mathematics Department, headed by Prof. C.L.

The ILim. programme fi-nanced by the Institute and by tocal and overseas research grants, will throw light on the structure of the Rift Valley in which part of Israel lies and, as a result, help in some measure to prove or disprove certain theories about the drifting of continents. Prof. Ben-Menshem's results will also help pinpoint earthquake-prone zones in Israel.

The researchers are carrying out underwater blasts (in the Gulf of Ellat, the Dead Sea and the Mediterranean), as well as blasts in bore holes on land (in the Arava and Sinal), Shock waves caused by these blasts will be picked up by seismo-graphs and geophones (very sensi-tive microphones) placed at dozens of points along 22 axes that criss-cross Israel and Sinal, the longest of which, from Sharm el-Sheikh to Metulla, will stretch over a distance of 650 kilometres.

The two most important factors to be recorded are the intensity of the shock waves and the time that passes between the explosions and their recording.

DANGERS of LIBERALISM TO CHINESE

New-style clothes, good-looking hairstyles, a variety of things to eat — all are indicative of the new wave of liberalism passing through China these days. But the intellectuals, remembering the purges that came after Mao's policy of intellectual freedom in 1967, are worried: how far can they go?

THE indefatigable Haifa conductor Dalla Atias, finding a worthy cause in the Capital, brought her ensemble to Jerusalem in a special concert. Considering that a group of musicians who do not derive their livelihood from their musical activities must have a fluctuating membership, achievements were quite commendable. Belance and uniformity of sound showed considerable Standards, intonstion on the whole was satisfactory, and the players' response to the conductor's directives showed good grounding in rehearsals and the will to cooperate. One wished to see occasionally a reflection of Dalia Atlas' enthusiasm on the performers' faces — they were all so terribly serious and tense.

Dowland's music (1562-1626) preserved its archaid lute character in the conductor's arrangements for string orchestra. The Symphony by SHLOMO Mintz, currently our dication and enthusiasm. has already acquired an assured stage presence and does not seem to suffer from nervousness. One is therefore inclined to expect from him an almost mature performance, and is tempted to compare him to seasoned colleagues in his craft.

There is a certain monotony in his playing. Though his tone is mellow and rich in sound, his digital fluency satisfactory, his phrasing appropriate and his sense of time quite reliable, one still has to wait for some manifestation of an individual personality, some particular inflection, dynamic, bowing or otherwise. One can still only guess at the artist's possession of an independent mind working beyond the teaching of his mentor, at his search for an interpretation congenial to his temperament and character. Only time will tell if Shlomo Mintz is going to develop his per-sonality parallel with his musical progress thus guaranteeing him success in reaching the higher ranks of his profession. Everything else is set for him to do so.

Mendi Rodan apparently did not spend enough time for rehearsing. In the Bach Concerto, a few discrepancies in the phrasing of the accompanying strings (especially in the slow movement) irritated the concentrated listener. The Elgar piece very difficult to keep moving, with its emotional heaviness and verbose repetitiveness - needs the full attention of all the players, strict observance of all directions land careful dynamic balance to achieve the elegant sweep and swing required to carry the music to a safe and satisfying ending. With all its structural weakness

His musicianship was never in question, and his appearances, in recitals, ensembles or with orchestras, are always characterized by a sincerity and dedicated integrity which serves the music and does not strive to put himself before or above the composer. On this occasion, his linking with two of our most experienced artists produced an ensemble of high quality.

Parent approach to the retarded

A GROUP of five young mothers met last week in a small clinic in Tel Aviv's Hadassah Hospital. Cheerful, attractive-looking women, their families range in size from seven children to two; all live within the Tel Aviv area, coming from a variety of backgrounds, Sephardi and Ashkenazi As a group, they give the impression of an average crosssection of Israeli women in their twenties and thirties. All share a common problem: that of having a Mongoloid child.

This particular meeting, at which the mothers had the opportunity of discussing a variety of problems with an Akim sociel worker, was the eighth in a series of weekly group discussions which have been held regularly during the past two months. In the words of its initiator, Dr. Cyril Legum, Chief Resident Doctor in the Pediatric Ward of Hadassah, the idea of the group is to create an informal meeting place focusing on mutual problems: problems which, as it turned out, none of the women involved had ever had the chance of discussing openly and freely before. The parents of retarded children are very isolated; they are asharned and embarrassed to discuss the matter with friends or neighbours whose children are normal; they have no idea of the exact medical situation; they know little of the facilities which do exist for such children, nor do they know where to turn for guidance. In fact, both the Tel Aviv municipality and Akim have excellent facilities available — if you know where to find them."

Working with similar problems in the U.S., says Dr. Legum, it was found that one of the hardest problems in dealing with retarded children was to approach parents.

TWO STRANGERS
It is impossible to see each parent individually and intensively; when a doctor and a mother meet, they are two strangers — the mother is often too inhibited to discuss the things which worry her most. On the other hand, if a group of mothers with a common problem is formed, they meet on an equal level and a friendly footing. The group also affords the mothers the opportunity of meeting with various experts and professionals working with retarded children and hearing from them at first hand how they should cope with all problems which arise, what address to turn to for any specific need.

In Israel today, there are about 75,000 officially registered retarded persons of all ages, some under the care of the Ministry of Welfare, many receiving assistance from Akim—the Israel Association for the Retarded. On Wednesday, Akim's annual door-to-door fund-raising drive takes place: the Association hopes to raise IL500,000 to be put towards new programmes as well as the webser and improvement of cristing continues. as well as the upkeep and improvement of existing services which include special kindergartens and schools, sheltered workshops and hostels. Thirty per cent of the children in Akim's special kindergartens are Mongoloids. Good and adequate facilities exist — but parents do not always know where and to whom to turn. POST Reporter CATHERINE ROSENHEIMER, reports here on a new and small pilot project initiated at Tal Aviv's Hadassah Washing homefully the first initiated at Tel Aviv's Hadassah Hospital, hopefully the first of many similar schemes.

Last week Mrs. Rahel Shazar, wife of the President, set the ball rolling for Akim's annual fund raising day, when she handed her cheque to Miss Esther Herlitz, member of the 1972 executive committee for the drive, at the new Beit Hanassi.

I could see from experience that there was something wrong with the child but each time I remarked on this, to my husband, to my mother, even at the mother-and-child clinic, I was told 'you worry too much, you're imagining things.' I wouldn't have dreamed of sending the child away: but I resent the fact that even those who knew kept the truth from me."

Explaining the medical point of view, Dr. Nahum Boger, Head of or to keep it at home. Each case is individual: ideally one should not decide for the parents, but let them decide alone. To approach this correctly you need trained social workers to assist in the dec.sion, you need to follow up each case individually." Stressing his point that the doctor can never decide for a mother regarding home or institution upbringing, he cites the fol-lowing case: 'Many years ago a Looking mother in one of my wards gave birth to a severely retarded child. She was young, hard up and her husband had deserted her while she to various members of her staff was pregnant; this seemed to me a and fluently picked up the threads clear case for placing the infant in of her interview with me as though an institution, I recommended her she's been doing this kind of thing to do so, but she decided none the all her life. less to keep the child. Of course there are difficulties in keeping Mongoloid children at home after a certain age: boys tend generally to be timid though girls are sometimes aggressive. Akim exists for the parents of all retarded children: its special kindergartens, special schools, particular the Afikam sheltered workshop in Ramat Hasharon where the work ability of the retarded is fully exploited so that many can work in regular industry after training: all these are admirable."

Equally important are the Akim protected hostels for older retarded cases: their parents are often descried Gradually they opened up and the neighbours will say is another perately concerned as to who will care for them one day when they

TEL AVIV MAC.'S SOCCER LEAGUE LEAD NARROWED

Jerusalem Post Sports Reporter TEL AVIV. — The National Football League lead of Tel Aviv Maccabi. held to a 1:1 draw in Kfar Saba, was yesterday reduced to three points. Closest challengers, Haifa Hapoel and Jerusalem Betar, both won their games. Haifs Hapoel beat Tel Aviv Betar 2:0 and Jerusalem Betar beat Shimshon by the same score.

This Saturday saw the largest number of goals — 23 — scored in any weekend of National League football. Both Jerusalem teams, Betar and Hapoel, scored fine away victories and both Haifa clubs too returned important wins.

Beersheba football fans were treated to the best game seen in the Negev for many years, a 4:4 draw between the local Hapoei and Hakoah. However, the outstanding win of the day was Jerusalem Hapoel's 3:0 trouncing of Netanya Maccabi Netanya started the game without Mordechal Spiegler, who was injured. His absence was badly felt, and after half an hour Singal gave the visitors the lead. Coach Eli Fuchs instructed Spiegler to take the field in the second half, and after four minutes Spiegler took a penalty spot kick which was saved by Jerusalem keeper Tuval.

After that golden opportunity to equalize was flunked it was all Jerusalem. In the 52nd and 54th minutes Eli Ben Rimoj and Zion Turjeman both added goals. In the 70th minute, Ben Rimoj failed to score from the penalty spot. Referee Sterchnov sent off a player from each team - Topolovsky of Maccabi in the first half and Turjeman in the second half. Five thousand saw the game.

The father came to Israel in 1948 to fight against the Jews. Once here, he deserted and enhisted in the Israel army. After demobilization he settled in Beer-sheba with his Jewish bride.

When their first child, a daughter, turned 18, the conflict be-tween her parents' religions be-came a problem. The Druse faith claims for itself all the chil-dren of a Druse father, even if he embraces another faith. The Jewish recognizes as Jewish ali the issue of a Jewish mother. If the girl gave her faith as Druse, she could claim exemption from the Army. The parents decided to leave the decision up to their daughter. She chose to enlist.

The girl's paternal uncle was a high-ranking army officer in Syria and was one of the three judges who condemned Eli Cohen for espionage. He was later executed himself on a charge of conspiracy against the Syrian

Mr. Ear-Lavi called a news conference at his office at Jerusalem's Histadrut building on Friday where Rabbi Efrimshviili told of his traumatic experience.

Last Wednesday evening, Rabbi Effinshvilli was due to speak on behalf of his Association at the conference of the Committee for soviet Jewry at the Van Leer Institute in Jerusalem. He was working at his desk at the Ministry at 3.30 in the afternoon when a pair of Georgians approached him with a request that he act as interest. a request that he act as interpreter be similarly harassed again.

They denied that their "Associa-

Agudist Knesset Member Menahem Porush told The Jerusalem Post later that he knew nothing about the whole episode and condemned any such methods.

A member of the Orthodox activist group, Mr. Zvi Weinman of Jerusalem, said that his organization was not involved. He said the "kidnapping" was part of an internal feud between the Georgians themselves. 89% think Golda is doing well Jerusalem Post Political Reporter TEL AVIV. - Prime Minister Golda Meir's popularity continues to be high. The latest poll by Porl, Public Opinion Research of Israel, reported 89.4 per cent were satisfied with her performance as Prime Minister.

The question asked was: With Mrs. Meir now entering her fourth year as Premier, how was she doing? Over 78 per cent said she was doing "very well," 13 per cent said "well," 4.4 per cent were unhappy with her as Premier and 2.2 per cent had no opinion

In a breakdown of the answers according to countries of origin, it emerged that only 1.9 per cent of those from occidencountries were dissatisfied with Mrs. Meir. The figure rose to 9.9 per cent among those coming from oriental countries.
